EDITORIAL: CHANGES TO THE VOLUME INDEX

We would like to inform readers of a change in frequency of the volume index and the addition of a subject index to this material. Beginning with the 1991 issues, we will publish an author and subject index in every third volume, i.e., every second month. The first bimonthly index will appear in the 1991 February 20 issue of Part 1. All subsequent bimonthly indexes will appear in Part 1 of the Journal instead of in the Letters. That can now be done because the indexes are generated in the Chicago Journal office, rather than typeset with the Letters. The issue containing the index will be labeled on the spine.

We will continue to publish the annual and five-year indexes and to distribute them free to all subscribers.

We hope that these changes will make it easier for readers to find the information they need.
